LODI, CA, Jun 15 (MARKET WIRE) --

Dr. Todd Franklin was featured on the cover of the latest Practical Aesthetics magazine as one of the top clinical instructors world wide in the field of dentistry in 2009. The featured dentists were selected by the California Center for Advanced Dental Studies (CCADS), an industry leader in postgraduate education.

Dr. Franklin's selection was a result of his clinical skills, mentoring efforts and leadership in the field of cosmetic dentistry. "Dr. Franklin has proven to be not only an outstanding dentist but also an educator and coach for other dentists looking to advance their cosmetic skills," said Garrett Caldwell, President of CCADS. Dr. Franklin leads a bimonthly study group to discuss and review aesthetic cases and the latest developments and techniques in dentistry. Dr. Franklin also is the co-program director for the CCADS Live Patient Hands On Program in San Francisco, California and has been an integral part of the success of that program. In addition, Dr. Franklin has worked one on one with many of the dentists in the area helping them with diagnosis, materials and treatment planning.

Dr. Franklin provides beautiful smiles for people all over Northern California. Dr. Franklin received his undergraduate degree from the University of the Pacific and then graduated from University of California San Francisco, School of Dentistry. He has been trained personally by some of the foremost cosmetic and reconstructive dentists in the field. Dr. Franklin has the distinct honor of recently winning "Top Cosmetic Dentist" for the annual Best of San Joaquin Magazine and was voted The Stockton Record's "Top Dentist" for all of San Joaquin County 2009.

The California Center for Advanced Dental Studies (CCADS) is a not for profit organization focused on changing the way postgraduate dental education is offered to dentists. CCADS is led by Program Director, Dr. Thomas Dudney, and has mentors and instructors currently conducting study clubs and clinical programs related to cosmetic dentistry across the USA, Canada and the UK.
